YOU REALLY SAVED ME THERE! I BROUGHT YOU MEAT! TAKE IT!

Thanks, but... There's too much...

BANG BANG

Her limbs' necrosis had, indeed, been slowly progressing. At that rate, asking a friend for help, which I don't do often, started to seem like the only option. As I was pondering my course of action, the local cattleman stopped by. I helped him with his lower back the other day, and he brought me a large amount of meat as thanks.

Ahhh...

Let's eat!

Nom

Even I hadn't had meat in a while, and I wondered how much longer it'd been for Reszurre. The moment she tasted it, she couldn't hold back her reaction. I was relieved to see her happily stuffing her cheeks without a care in the world. The dentures seemed to be working out well, too, for the time being.
